

Further deregulation of media ownership will have disastrous consequences for the quality and diversity of media the American public receives. Our content is dangerously limited as it is, and it behooves you to protect such diversity and quality in the interests of the American people.